

Archeology

Contributed by Administrator
Sunday, 01 March 2009
Last Updated Monday, 02 March 2009

There're not many people who look at the world through the prism of history. Read in history books, still want to know the facts, dates and events from our past. But some of this is not enough. For those who want something more, an ideal direction of study is archeology. First of all, at your fingertips should be history. But archeology gives us the opportunity to participate in personal discovery.

Regardless of the university, certainly we will take part in exercises and lectures. Some schools also organize seminar (discussions based on the literature read). Comes into contact with seminars and laboratories (practical classes). The classes are divided into mandatory and optional specialization (optional). Certainly we will also take part in activities on the ground, which are mandatory and usually consist of trips to different places, not only in Poland but, for example, in Ukraine or Egypt. I would doubt, but not on a tour of historic buildings and watching the same excavations. Sometimes you have to get dirty good! For this reason, candidates for archeology should be irreproachable health and good physical condition. Some universities even require proof of participation in physical education classes in high school.

Under the direction of archeology can choose a number of specialties, such as: ancient archeology, architecture, archeology, underwater archeology, preservation of archaeological relics, archeology and general English, Mediterranean archeology. Students of archeology and Poland take part in public activities (lectures, exercises, seminars) for the ages: stone, bronze, iron, and the Middle Ages, and the Mediterranean archeology students participate in classes on the ancient Eastern archeology, Egypt, Greece and Rome. At the University.

Remember that the Commission may examine the overall knowledge of the subject, asking for the reading, investigate, and openness to the activity of the study. The advantage may turn out to be foreign languages. Top rated is not so much the largest number of dates by heart, understands the essence of historical processes.

After graduation, graduates may be employed in research institutions, private companies, archaeological, maintenance offices and museums. Perhaps the dream of every archaeologist is a future trip to the great excavations, such as Egypt and the discovery of something important and great. It is a fact that must be outstanding and have a lot of luck to achieve something like this, but all of you!